best supervision that can be given. The element is too great in all classes am an insurance free-trader. I would repeal every revenue measure, and place life of insurance. We are only taxing ourselves insurance, largely a public partnership, on a system of fees approximating cost. If insurance was a trust, if the State was getting its division of Standard Oil profits, there might be at least some socialistic theory for the thousands of dollars in taxes on premiums, but the premium payers, not the management, 'pay the freight.' The bar to federal supervision is stronger in the revenues that accrue by State exac-tions than any settlement of the question by the oft-quoted decision of Paul vs. Virginia. But we can never cross a stream till we reach its banks, and so the business of this convention, and of this membership, is, with our feet on the earth, to meet existing conditions, appreciating their growing responsibilities, and with conscientious care fearlessly enact such a supervision as will bring to the commonwealth a high degree of honor, to the corporations justice under the law, and to ourselves the integrity of purpose that always attaches and is ever recognized in the discharge of duty well and faithfully done."

JOHN A. M'CALL'S ADDRESS. This afternoon John A. McCall, president of the New York Life Insurance Company, delivered an address, in part as follows: "When one contemplates the formidable array of supervisory statutes and considers how much more is left to the discretion of insurance officials in enforcing the law, it requires some courage to declare one's faith in State supervision. Notwithstanding the defects of State supervision, the expense and anovance it imposes upon the companies, and its liability of being abused, I believe the evils of no supervision at all would be infinitely greater. The evils of supervision are such as inhere in all govthe evils of anarchy. Human nature is the same-or perhaps a little more assertiveporation, as when acting on individual re-

'It would appear that an amendment to the constitution is necessary to secure national supervision and control of insurance companies. Pending such an amendment, it is suggested that the members of this association should co-operate with the commissioners of the several States, appointed to secure uniform laws for taxation and other purposes, in order that policy holders may be protected against the crude and ofttimes destructive legislation proposed in some of the States.

"The public, of itself, and without supervision, is helpless with respect to its equitles in the fire contracts, and worse than helpless in respect to any quick test of solvency. The liabilities of a life insurance company are of such a nature that none but expert mathematicians can calculate them, and chiefly so long deferred that a company without supervision might be hopelessly insolvent for years and still continue to pay all its demand liabilities, pre-senting to the public the appearance of

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. WINAMAC, Ind., Sept. 24.-Democrats of this part of the Thirteenth district do not think much of District Chairman Fletcher's proposition that Professor Hering and Representative A. L. They concede that Mr. Brick has the advantage of Professor Hering in experience, that he is a more convincing speaker and a more brilliant orator and that he is an incomparably better mixer, for all of which reasons they fear that if the joint debate is arranged if will result in the discomfiture of their Democratic Attitude Toward the Laporte County Recordership.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. LAPORTE, Ind., Sept. 24.-The understanding here on the part of the Republican and Democratic managers that it will be necessary to elect a county recorder in each of the counties this fall has had the effect of arousing unlooked-for interest in Laporte county because of circumstances that enter into the situation here. Both parties have nominated their tickets, and if it becomes necessary to place candidates on the ticket for recorder the Democrats will be compelled to reassemble their convention for the purpose of making such a failed to empower the county central committee to fill any vacancies that might occur. The Republicans, on the other hand, at their convention gave the central committee authority to fill any vacancies that might occur, and so the committee will name the candidate, unless it concludes not to shoulder the responsibility.

Nelson McCurdy, Democrat, a soldier of the civil war and previous to his election as county recorder a grain buyer at Wanatah, is serving his first term and is entitled to a renomination. But there is a Watson's Campaign in Fayette.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. CONNERSVILLE, Ind., Sept. 24.-James E. Watson has opened the campaign in this at Orange and Lyons Station. His speeches have been listened to with eager interest and the good points liberally applauded. He will deliver addresses at Harrisburg, Columbia and Falmouth this week, and on Saturday afternoon Lieutenant Governor Gilbert will speak in Root's Hall at 2 o'clock. In the evening Frank B. Democrat Who Would Succeed Speaker Henderson in the House-

Letter of Acceptance.

WATERLOO, Ia., Sept. 24.-Former Governor Horace Boies to-day made public his letter accepting the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Third Iowa district, The letter is devoted entirely to the trusts and the tariff, and the only adequate remedy for the evil with which trusts are charged is declared to be the removal of the tariff on trust-made products. He declares the trust question to be the most important that now agitates the public mind. The letter says in part:

"The teachings of Democrats logically ead them to believe that our protective tariff system has made the organization of these trusts possible, and so long as it is continued, they also believe, it will furnish a defensive breastwork behind which they can find shelter from every shaft that could reach a vital part.

"The futility of legislation other than tariff reduction in restraint of such action (the alleged methods of trusts) is to them demonstrated by the fact that the great bulk of our trusts have been openly organized in the face of anti-trust laws carefully prepared and incorporated into the statutes of the Nation in many of the States." Mr. Boies continues: "The Democratic doctrine is that a tax on consumers can be rightfully laid for one purpose only, and that to raise needed revenue for the use of the government. This doctrine must be interpreted in the light of conditions as they exist when it is applied. Then speaking of the position of the Democrats he says: "It is the heart of the trust they would reach. To do this they know the wall that shelters it must be battered down at the place where it is concealed. If this should reduce our tariff system below a revenue basis they would help to build it up higher whenever or wherever a trust is not sheltered behind it. This is the present day doctrine of a tariff for revenue only as I understand it and as I shall interpret it if I go to Congress.' Republicans to Nominate To-Day. AN ADDRESS AT PEORIA, ILL.

Has Redeemed the Pladge Made at Buffalo on Taking Oath.

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 24.-Elihu Root, secretary of war, was the speaker at to-night's meeting of the Illinois League of Republican Clubs. The Collseum was packed to ters in the Democratic camp and a row is | the doors and time after time the secretary was vociferously applauded. His address was confined entirely to the recent troubles in the Philippines and Cuba, and not once during the evening did he mention the tariff or the trusts. In opening his address he paid a high compliment to the late William McKinley. Continuing, he

"The first spoken words by his (McKinley's) successor, when taking the oath of office at Buffalo, were 'It is my purpose to continue absolutely unbroken the policy of President McKinley for the peace, prosperity and honor of our beloved country.' I challenge judgment upon the truth and loyalty with which Theodore Roosevelt has redeemed his promise. The murderer's

"The work of pacification and construction in Cuba has been completed. Military government there had faithfully given effect to the humane purposes of the American people. With sincere kindness our officers had helped the Cubans to take steps necessary to the establishment of their own constitutional government. "Of all the executive problems following in the train of the Spanish war the problems of the Philippines alone remained. Success there had not then been demonstrated and it was still possible that the failure there might lead the American people to withdraw power from Republican hands. Accordingly the Filipino policy of the administration was attacked. The policy was simple. Spain, which for more than three centuries before Dewey's victory, had exercised undisputed sovereigncounty and was received by crowded houses ty over the Philippine islands, ceded ereignity thereto to the United States by the treaty of peace which was signed at by the Senate on Feb. 6, 1899. The cession was one of the terms of peace and was upon a special consideration of $20,000,000 to be paid to Spain by the United States.

DUTY OF THE UNITED STATES "Upon the ratification of the treaty and the payment of that money sovereignty over the Philippines was vested in the United States, the territory of the islands became the territory of the United States, the public lands belonging to Spain in the islands became the property of the United States; all the rights and all the obligations towards the other nations of the world in respect of the Philippines which pertained to sovereignty devolved upon the United States.'

United States towards the insurrection in the Philippines had to be determined, there was no difference of opinion between the two parties as to the duty of the administration. Then he read a number of editorials from the press throughout the counboth Republican and Democratic, showing that there was only one thing to do, and that was to conquer the forces of

He then read a letter written by Jose Rizal, the greatest genius and most revered patroit of the Philippines, in which he pleaded with his people to submit to American sovereignty as the only way in which to

PARTISAN ATTACKS. The secretary told of the attacks made bers of the Senate and House and said: "The whole army and its generals were involved in common denunciation. The gallant and fearless Funston was stigmatized by the senator from Tennessee as a 'blatherskite brigadier.' 'I do not know who senator from Idaho, 'but I imagine, he was a charity boy who was appointed to West Point by some representative or senator and educated by the government.' Said the senator from Utah: 'Did Chaffee alone unaided, in coldness and in brutality and now represented by Speaker Henderson. in savage and unrelenting disregard of every human sentiment or possibility of human suffering conceive this iniquitous scheme? Whence, from what diabolical source was it derived? The American people ought to know. Is there any penalty beneath the sun adequate to be meted out to the merciless wretch who has thus name and the American people?"

'If any orders of mine were required to insure the merciful conduct of military and naval operations they would not be lacking, but every step in the progress of our troops has been marked by a humanity which has surprised even the misguided insurgents.' 'The second is President Schurman, and joining with him Admiral George Dewey and the other members of the first Philippine commission: 'To those who derive satisfaction from seeing an isolated occurrence, regrettable indeed, but incident to every war, and making them the basis of sweeping accusations this commission has nothing to say. Such wrongs as were actually committed against the natives were likely to be brought to our attention. and in every case that we investigated we found a willingness on the part of those in authority to administer prompt justice.' "The third is Governor William H.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 24.-The Edison Electric Light Company lost their current last night and left the city in darkness, and many places without power. The telegraph companies, whose currents for operating their wires come from dynamos which receive their power from the com-pany, suddenly found all wires useless. By attachment to other plants and by using additional currents from other cities the wires were all restored. To-day all users of electric power are unable to do business. The newspapers are compelled to set type by hand, the power for their machines having failed. Underground wires became heated and the insulation burned off, making it necessary to replace them with new administration our heartiest approval and most cordial support. We recognize the fidelity with which he has carried out the policies of the lamented predecessor and the rare capacity he has shown in meeting the new responsibilities of his great office. We look forward with confidence to his election to the presidency in 1904, and so far as this convention has the power we pledge thereto the earnest efforts of the Republican party of this State. "We glory in the magnificent achievements of our army and navy in restoring order in the Philippines, where they have shown the same splendid loyalty and devotion as were shown in the great battle for humanity in the islands to the south of us. "The responsibilities which have come to us as a nation have been courageously met, and the promise made for the establishment of an independent republic on the Island of Cuba has been redeemed. We congratulate the people of Cuba upon this consummation. We favor the reciprocity with that new republic proposed by the Republicans in Congress, giving effective reilef to Cuba and substantial benefits to our own people without harm to any American industry.

"We believe that our new possessions should be accorded such measure of selfgovernment as their development in the course of time may require. O'BRIEN, | belief that I might be of benefit to a party | read a paper on "The Rewards of Industry," in which he asserted, among other unwilling to remain for an hour in the field | things, that the chief object of labor unions was to secure higher wages. Miss Addams took issue with this, and said their principal object was to get a shorter work day. Mr. Stickney said too many men had been attracted to the anthracite fields by the high wages, and that caused the present trouble. Miss Addams declared that the operators were responsible for overstocking the labor market. They had imported labor and were responsible for present conditions. The debate was lively and evoked much HELENA, Mont., Sept. 24.-The Demo- interest. Miss Addams's subject was "The Social Waste of Child Labor," but she made her reply to Mr. Stickney before beginning her paper. The last speaker was Florence Kelley, secretary of the National John M. Evans, of Missoula, for congress- | Consumers' League, New York, who spoke on "The Indirect Employer, the Purchaser." At the afternoon session the principal topic of discussion was "The Governa and his friends had absolute control of the | as an Employer," by E. J. Gainer, of Munconvention to-day. Senator Clark presided | cie, Ind., secretary of the executive board of the National Association of Letter Carriers. He characterized Uncle Sam as the best employer and the worst employer. He is exacting in his demands when applicants for positions appear, and after they have shown special fitness by rigid examination they are consigned to a perpetual dead level of mediocrity. Terrence V. Powderly, former commis sioner of immigration, made the second address, and was listened to with great interest. In speaking of the anthracite coal strike, Mr. Powderly made a statement which he thought might offend some, but which he considered the truth, nevertheless. It was the fact that few people think of the laboring man until he strikes, and they are in danger of being affected by the results of the strike. It is only when we begin to fear that we may not have the pleasure of roasting our shins in front of an anthracite coal fire next winter that we realize that we have a labor problem
